

ABSTRACT OF DISCLOSURE

An object of this invention is to achieve the current collecting structure and the electrode structure with good electrical conductivity and ionic conductivity which are comprised of the current collecting substrate and the current collecting structure or the electrode structure that are covered with the carbon material or the electrode active material formed on the current collecting substrate without the use of binders.